MORAL DERELICTS IS PASTOR'S THEME.

Moral derelicts or the effects of conscious sin on the human heart, was the subject at Christian church revival services Tuesday evening. The text from the first chapter of Romans was presented in such clear and logical manner as to show the inescapable effects of continued disobedience to God's laws. Only by obedience to divine teaching can men and women hope to overcome evil and live righteous and useful lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman sang a beautiful duet and the chorus is growing larger nightly. With such excellent leadership in the song service and vigorous evangelistic preaching a fine meeting is promised. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Services at 7:15 nightly, except Saturday.

STILLS PLentiful ON THE BIG SANDY SAYS DRY AGENT

Prohibition Agent Returns to Covington After a Series of Raids on Kentucky-Virginia Border

Mammoth moonshine stills are plentiful along the Big Sandy River according to Chris Schott, prohibition agent in charge of the Covington office, who returned Tuesday from participating in a two weeks' raid along the border between Kentucky and West Virginia.

The enforcement officers from both states co-operated in the raid. Schott told of the capture of a 250-gallon still in operation on Berkenshaw's Creek, nineteen miles south of Ashland, Ky.

Another still of 125-gallon capacity was located and destroyed on Shope's Creek, a tributary of the Little Sandy River. Schott said that the stills were in operation and were equipped with pumps and tanks for drawing water from the creeks for use in making "moonshine" whiskey.

The raiders destroyed more than 5,000 gallons of mash and poured fifty gallons of "moonshine" whiskey on the ground as they had no means of removing it.

Hearing that moonshine whiskey was sold openly in the mountains Schott decided to verify the rumors. With the aid of a guide he penetrated the mountains and finally came to a still where he bought a gallon for $10.

After obtaining the liquor Schott placed the owner of the still under arrest and took him to Ashland, where the man registered as James Mustafa. The man gave bond for his appearance before the Federal grand jury and then left for home. Schott will use the purchased liquor as evidence at the trial, which will be held at Catlettsburg.

BLAZE IN FLEMINGSBURG THEATER SATURDAY.

The Fleming Gazette says: Saturday afternoon a fire alarm caused by a small blaze at the Princess Theater brought out the fire department in double quick time. Before most people go there the run of hose had been laid from the public square well and the gasoline engine was throwing a stream of water, which was not needed, as chemical extinguishers had put out the fire. The blaze started from a patent jacket where the stove pipe went through a partition.

MORNING SERVICES ARE FEATURES OF REVIVAL

Evangelist Harmon's Morning Bible Studies at South Methodist Church Are Interesting.

Following his theme of the preceding night, concerning the natural depravity of the unregenerate human heart, Rev. Harmon spoke Tuesday night on "The Witness of the Spirit." After reading the eighth chapter of Romans as a background, he took as his text, John 3:8, "So is every one that is born of the Spirit." He emphasized the fact that genuine conversion and forgiveness of sins is always accompanied by a very conscious sense of God's forgiveness. God, he said, does not save man through the intellect but through the heart. Proof of one's salvation may be found through the witness of God's word, assuring him of forgiveness if he repents, confesses his sins, forsakes his sins and believes on the Lord Jesus Christ; through the witness of God's spirit testifying to his own spirit and bringing peace and comfort; and through the witness of his own spirit in that he feels the sense of sonship and forsaking his old nature find the fruits of the Holy Spirit working out in his life.

Rev. Harmon is bringing out the richest treasures of God's promises in his morning studies of the Bible. Everyone is invited to attend the morning and evening services being held daily at the First M. E. Church, South.

FALLS DOWN STEPS; WOMAN BREAKS NECK.

Mrs. Crawford was descending a flight of steps when she fell to the bottom. In falling the lady's neck was broken and she died within five minutes. Physicians were of the opinion that Mrs. Crawford suffered a stroke of paralysis at the head at the steps which caused her to fall. She was 65 years of age and besides her husband, is survived by several grown children.

JAMES SEELEY DIES IN HOSPITAL AFTER THREE OPERATIONS

Popular Local Barber Died Late Tuesday Losing In Hard Fought Battle—Funeral To Be Held Friday Morning.

The news of "Jim" Seeley's death spread rapidly over Maysville late Tuesday and brought sorrow into scores of hearts who knew him and counted him among their real friends. James Seeley, 42 years of age, was born and reared in Maysville. Since early manhood he had followed the trade of a barber and for the past seventeen years had been a partner with Mr. Charles Slack in the ownership and operation of the Central Hotel barber shop.

Several weeks ago he was taken ill and, after a serious spell, was thought to be getting better but he again sank rapidly and was rushed to the Deaconess hospital at Cincinnati where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. Developments required another operation and on Tuesday he was required to undergo the third, shortly after which the end came.

Mr. Seeley was one of the cleverest young men in Maysville and to know him was to like him. His clever manner, ready wit and withal the bearing of a gentleman, won for him scores of personal admirers who mourn his passing.

The body was brought to Maysville Wednesday afternoon and taken to the home of his uncle, Mr. James Finerty, in Limestone street. The funeral will be held from St. Patrick's church Friday morning at 9 o'clock and burial will be made at the Catholic cemetery at Washington.

Mr. Seeley is survived by his father, Mr. Richard Seeley, of Brooklyn, New York; and one aunt, Miss Sadie Finerty, of Cincinnati, and one uncle, Mr. James Finerty, of this city.

A newspaper telegram from Canton, N. Y., says: Franklin Slys, 23 years old, recently elected master of St. Lawrence Lodge, No. 111, Free and Accepted Masons, probably has the distinction of being the youngest master in New York state.

Mr. Slys is a senior in St. Lawrence university and spends some of his spare time working in the First National bank. His home is in Maysville, Ky., but he became a member of the Masonic order in Canton, and because of his intense interest and conscientious work was elevated to the rank of master. He has the record of being the youngest master ever elected to the chair in St. Lawrence Lodge, this record being previously held by Ethan Cornell, who was made master when 27 years of age. Mr. Slys is also a member of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, one of the leading men's fraternities on the hill.

LEWIS MURDER CASE TO BE DROPPED AFTER TWO HUNG JURIES

Case Against Harvey Austin for the Alleged Slaying of Charles Bertram, Telegraph Operator at Vanceburg, To Be Dropped.

It became known in Maysville Wednesday that the case against Harvey Austin, charged with the slaying of Charles Bertram, well known C. & O. telegraph operator, at Vanceburg in December, 1920, would be settled and taken out of court at the present term of the Lewis Circuit Court.

It will be remembered that Austin was confined in the Mason county jail for several weeks when he was first arrested and charged with killing Bertram. Austin claimed that he though Bertram, who endeavored to enter the home of a relative where Austin was visiting was a robber forcing an entrance. Austin fired through the front door and the bullet struck Bertram and caused his death later in a Portsmouth hospital.

The case has been tried in the Lewis Circuit Court twice and in each case it resulted in a hung jury and mistrial. It is understood that agreement of settlement has been reached in the criminal case but whether an agreement has been reached in the civil action brought by Bertram's widow, is not known.

OUR POLICY:

VITAL DEFECT OF THE NEW SILVER "PEACE DOLLAR."

The new silver dollar, which is to be known as the "Peace Dollar," has already started contention mental if not actual. It appears from description given of its physical form that it won't stack. Now that will not keep the most of us from giving this new piece of money cordial welcome to our personal, individual, private pockets. In truth the great mass of people are in such relation to money as to be glad to get in intimate touch with it in any shape or form. Gold, silver, paper, clean, soiled, or in fact as well as figurative description, filthy lucre, it's all one to us. The matter of its stacking or not is of no consequence, as we are perfectly willing to take it spread out or heaped in bulk.

But in the busy marts of trade where the money changers do congregate the stackableness or instackableness of hard money is of importance. Now the reason the new dollar won't stack is because it bulges in the middle and tapers to the edges. It is not of a flat and even surface. People who are familiar with banking will recall that as they have gazed in covetousness upon the fortunes safely out of reach behind bank gratings they, in times past at least, have seen large stacks of silver, and mayhap gold, lending variety of color to the more numerous piles of gold and silver certificates. The new dollar will not lend itself to this arrangement, absolutely necessary for the convenient and rapid handling of the many bank tellers and counters.

That serves to illustrate the objectionable feature of the "Peace Dollar" in that it is unstackable. There are other uses of like character in the legitimate branches of money exchange. Another which is by no means the least popular, if rumor be trustworthy, regardless of its legitimacy, is of somewhat private and personal character. In a purely social demonstration of the great American game—no, not baseball, but the one played under Schenk and Hoyle regulations—it is not always convenient to have the varicolored chips. There was a time when the old-styled silver dollar furnished an admirable substitute. There is regret in certain circles, club and otherwise, that the newly coined peace piece does not lend itself with equal facility to the poker stacking proposition.

But to the average man the fact that the new dollar will not stack is of small moment beside the fact that, like the old dollar, it will not stick.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

LONG STRIDES TOWARD PEACE

Peace in the region of the Pacific has been guarded against probable violation by the pact drawn up by the four principal powers at the Washington conference. Peace in western Europe is practically assured by the promise of Great Britain to rush immediately to the aid of France in the event of another threat from Germany. It is understood that Italy and Belgium are also included in a four-power understanding regarding the future peace of Europe. Armistice Day, 1921, may be celebrated as the date on which was inaugurated the first practical and effective movement to make the world safe against war, and President Harding is the man who appointed the day and issued the call to the nations to undertake that momentous work. The Cannes conference, from which has come the four-power European treaty, is in reality but another expression of the spirit of the Washington conference. It is the policy of the Republican Administration not to interfere in the affairs of Europe, where the United States has no direct interest as it has in the Pacific, hence the conference at Cannes was no business of ours. Nevertheless the world dream of peace, materialized in part at Washington under the able direction of President Harding and Secretary Hughes, has found its European expression at the Cannes meeting.

CRAFTY MISREPRESENTATION

The unfairness of the advocates of Government ownership of railroads is illustrated by some figures recently compiled and published by one of the advocates of the Plumb Plan, which would require the government to buy the railroads and turn them over to the employees to manage and operate. This proponent of government ownership took the valuation of a few of the short lines, which have the least expensive properties, divided that valuation by the miles of "track" and then multiplied the quotient by the total mileage of "line" of all the roads, and accepted this product as the value of all the roads. There were two vitally important errors in this method of computation. In the first place, the short lines, with their relatively poorer construction and equipment, smaller terminals and shops, are not representative of the roads as a whole. Then, again, the value of miles of "track" is not comparable with values of miles of "line" for many of the larger roads have several tracks on each mile of "line." The method of computation adopted by the Plumb Plan is about as fair as for a railroad manager to compute farm values by taking the value of unimproved pasture lands as a basis and multiplying by the total area of all farms. Still, one can scarcely blame the Government ownership advocates for resorting to such methods. They would have no argument at all if they had to be fair.

PARTY LEADER PASSES.

In the death of Clarence B. Miller, Secretary of the Republican National Committee, the party lost an indefatigable worker, and the country a fine patriot who, as Representative in Congress for ten years exhibited a brand of statesmanship of which his state, Minnesota, and the Nation were proud. Miller was one of the best posted men on the Philippines to be found in this country. He was a graduate of his State University and made the honor fraternity of Phi Beta Kappa. "His work during the campaign of 1920 was prodigious," declares Chairman Adams, "and was of such a character as to give him a high standing among all members of the National committee and party leaders." Miller was 50 and looked 40. His geniality and industry will be greatly missed by the National Committee.

AGE DISTRIBUTION UNDER CENSUS IS ANNOUNCED

Announcement By Census Bureau Shows Large Number of Centenarians in the Country.

Washington, D. C. — The Department of Commerce, through the Bureau of the Census, has issued a statement giving the distribution of the population of the United States by age periods, as shown by the returns of the fourteenth decennial census, taken as of January 1, 1920, with comparative figures for earlier census years.

The total population according to the last census, 105,710,620, included 11,573,230 children under 5 years of age, of whom 2,257,255 were infants under 1. The children under 5 formed 10.9 per cent. of the total population, as against 11.6 per cent. in 1910, 12.1 per cent. in 1900, 12.2 per cent. in 1890, and 13.8 per cent. in 1880. The percentage for infants under 1 was 2.1 in 1920, as against 2.4 in 1910. The decrease in the proportions of young children and infants between 1910 and 1920 is doubtless due, in whole or in large part, to the decline in the birth rate.

The proportions of persons at and above the age of 25 has become larger from census to census since 1880, the increase between 1910 and 1920 having been especially noteworthy in the case of persons 45 and over.

The number of centenarians reported in 1920 was 4,267, as against 3,555 in 1910. Of the persons reported as centenarians in 1920, 1,561 were men and 2,706 were women. The greater longevity of women is also shown by the fact that, although the males outnumbered the females in the population as a whole, the women predominated in each of the 5-year age periods above 75 in both 1920 and 1910. The census takers had no means of verifying the ages of the persons enumerated by them, and consequently the age returns, especially for centenarians, are not absolutely accurate. It is probable that the number of centenarians has been somewhat overstated at every census.

SPECIAL BREEDING PEN RAISES POULTRY PROFIT.

Mating up a special breeding pen of the best hens on the farm and the best male birds affords farmers one opportunity of increasing the profits from their poultry flock, according to suggestions being made to Kentucky farmers by the College of Agriculture. Twelve hens and one rooster usually will make a breeding pen large enough for the average farm.

Constitutional vigor, ability of the eggs to hatch, high egg production, production through a series of years, early maturity and breed and varietal characteristics should be taken into consideration when selecting the hens for the pen, the college poultrymen say. A rooster who crows often and has a "scrappy" nature usually makes

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York — The Curb Market, regarded as the real gambling place of New York City by all the rest of the country and a large part of Gotham itself, doesn't always develop the soulless, selfish creatures it is expected to. Here is John Borg, with offices at 30 Broad street, for instance, said to be the only man who ever made $2,000,000 on the "Curb", who has announced that he is through making money and is going to turn his business over to his employees. "I think this is something all successful business men should do," he says. "I have made a good fortune in the last 20 years and I believe in passing it on. I have no illusions about making money. After a man has enough for himself and his dependents he ought to give the younger generation the benefit of his experience." The co-partnership of the former employees has already gone into effect.

Far be it from me to allot sympathy to law breakers; but just as an academic proposition, one must confess to a small bit of it for some restaurants which are having a new form of prohibition enforcement applied to them. It is difficult to see just what they can do. For this effort at enforcement takes the form of an injunction which forbids them to "sell or remove any liquor from their premises, also from keeping such liquor." Forbidden to sell, move or keep, it is going to be a problem for them to avoid violating the injunction.

Cooperation won yesterday in the Supreme Court here when Justice McAvoy disallowed the suits brought by John P. Kirwin, a real estate broker, against those engaged in building the Hotel Commonwealth on the block between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth Broadway and Seventh avenue. The ending of this litigation favorably toward the Commonwealth marks the finish of such troubles, and the building of the greatest hotel will proceed without delay. The question of the soundness of the enterprise so different from the hotel promotions which have been financed by the banks, was made an issue in the cases just decided and the result justifies the faith of William J. Hoggson and his thousands of associates in this first great co-operative hotel in the world. Under the plan of operation, the members will receive a rebate of twenty per cent. on all the money they spend at the Commonwealth and will, in addition receive a similar rebate on all purchases made through the shopping bureau of the hotel.

We are interested in seeing what happens to "Madras House," now that it has moved uptown to compete with Broadway. It was a great success down at the Neighborhood theater in Grand Street, but the pessimists declare that a play in which philosophy and conversation holds so important a part, and which does require from its audience a definite degree of intelligence and willingness to think, will never go so well up among the white lights. We are watching the result at the National Theater and hoping that the pessimists are mistaken. They often are.

New York decided to have a "Boosters' Week." We were all to talk prosperity, I believe, and buy all the new clothes we could, and declare to the world that everything was going fine among us. That was all right. We rather approved. But it was something of a blow to some of us when Commissioner Hirschfeld started it off officially by dending a 100 per cent. raise for the Mayor's salary.

One independent taxi driver who takes his stand outside of a Broadway hotel — as near as the big companies will let him — has a plan which has doubled the demand for his car and is allowing him to smile derisively at the big companies' drivers. It's just a simple little sign which he painted himself. "Heated" is all it says. But the hit it does make with the after the theater shivers! "I bought one of those little cab heaters," he explained, "and hung my sign at the front of my taxi. And how it draws! Best of all, I get long-trip passengers — people who are dreading the cold ride to Yonkers or Flatbush. I've learned how well it pays to make people physically comfortable."

Farmers who wish to hatch chicks early have been advised by the college poultrymen to start their plans now. In cases where hens do not set in time for early hatching, the poultrymen have suggested that farmers get broody hens from their neighbors or use an incubator.

FEDERAL MEAT INSPECTION PROTECTS EVERY CONSUMER

Government Inspectors See That All Meat Eaten By Citizens Is Properly Killed and Carefully Packed.

Every day as the millions of consumers over the country sit down to their breakfast, dinner, or supper they receive a direct benefit from the work of the Government inspectors who see to it that all the meat products leave the packing plants without any taint of disease clinging to them. These inspectors are in duty in 839 packing and meat-preparing plants and perform a service that in the aggregate is enormous, the total number of animals examined during the last year, both before and after slaughter, totaling more than 62,000,000. This was 4.7 per cent. less than the preceding year, but 5.6 per cent. more than the average for the 14 years since the work of Federal meat inspection of the United States Department of Agriculture was started.

The total number of animals or carcasses condemned as unfit for food was 191,533 and the number of parts of carcasses 671,504. In addition the carcasses of 62,836 animals found dead or dying were disposed of in other ways than for food. A list of 53 diseases and conditions from actinomycosis to tuberculosis were responsible for a large number of swine condemnations, and the latter also caused the loss for food of a lot of beef. Pneumonia seems also to be one of the worst enemies of sheep that are shipped to market. In numbers of carcasses and parts of condemned swine suffer the most; cattle come next, then sheep, calves, and goats in the order named. In addition to the above inspections, all meats and products were re-inspected when shipped from the plants to the trade or consumers.

While the Federal meat inspectors are looking out for diseased animals in the pens and on the killing floors at the big central markets, other department men are exerting themselves to find ways and means for reducing the loss from disease, and from year to year the toll becomes less. Some day in the future we may expect to find some of the worst of these plagues wiped off the list, and that will mean more food for an increasing population.

SEED BED PRECAUTIONS PREVENT LEAF DISEASES

Treated Seed, New Soil and Canvass And Elimination of Manure Important in Reducing Losses.

Lexington, Ky. — Careful attention to seed, canvasses, soil and manure has been emphasized by W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station in his suggestions to Kentucky farmers for the control of serious tobacco diseases during the coming year. All efforts to control the diseases, including wildfire and angular leaf spot, should start at the seed bed since practically all outbreaks during the past years have been traced to this source, according to Mr. Valleau. Seed treatment promises to be a method of rendering seed disease free before planting. The use of bichloride of mercury is recommended in preference to formaldehyde as the latter resulted in some injury last year when the seed was not thoroughly washed. The seed should be soaked for 15 minutes in a solution made up of one part bichloride and 1,000 parts of water after which it should be washed thoroughly in several changes of clean water. The seed may be dried quickly if placed in a small cheesecloth bag and swung around at arm's length several times to remove surplus water and then spread in a thin layer. It is important that seed be treated even though it has been obtained from a field which seemed to be free from disease the previous year, the suggestions point out. Planting seed that is four or five years old has not proved an advantage in controlling the diseases.

In order to prevent infection, it is advisable to use new canvasses. In cases where it is necessary to use old canvasses, this should be boiled for three hours or longer in order to destroy any disease present. In all cases, the plant beds should be sown on fresh land. Care also should be taken to see that the bed is not subject to drainage from other places and especially fields where infected tobacco grew the previous year. Using organic manures, such as stable or chicken manure, may result in infection of the bed with the diseases. No harm should result from using inorganic fertilizers.

RAIDS IN IRELAND.

Dublin, Jan. 18. — Armed raids in the south of Ireland were regarded today as the first signs of Republican opposition to the Irish Free State. The police at Charlestown, in County Mayo, was attacked by armed men who seized arms and ammunition and kidnapped three policemen. Two visitors to the Cork jail suddenly produced revolvers and forced the wardens to release a Republican soldier under arrest for shooting a constable.

POOLED TOBACCO DELIVERY TO BEGIN MONDAY, JAN. 30

First Delivery Begins at Lexington January 26 — All Other Markets Open Following Monday.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 18. — Pooled tobacco will be received in Lexington beginning Thursday, January 26, and in all other towns Monday, January 30.

The Board of Directors of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association Tuesday set these dates for delivery of tobacco in instructions to Ralph M. Barker, director of warehouses.

The opening dates will be made known at once to the 55,000 members of the association, who patiently have been awaiting the announcement.

Bush W. Allen, second vice-president of the association, left for Washington last night to present the petition of the association for a loan of $10,000,000 from the War Finance Corporation to be used to refund to the banks that advance money to the association to pay growers on the delivery of their crops.

With the last of the difficulties attending the start of the association ironed out at Tuesday's meeting, assurances already given of the aid of the War Finance Corporation and the support of the banks which advised their depositors to join the association and promised in advance all the help possible, President James C. Stone and his associates were optimistic over the outlook for the resumption of business in the tobacco district and a general improvement in business of all kinds as one result.

MORROW IS UNABLE TO END THE STRIKE

Governor's Efforts To Bring Strikers And Mill Operators Together Are Futile.

Greatly disappointed because he did not succeed in his efforts to get officials of the Newport rolling mill and the striking union men to agree on a plan to settle their controversy, Governor E. P. Morrow returned Wednesday morning to Frankfort. He still has hope, though, that his visit to Newport and his conference will result in some sort of compromise between the two sides.

Regarding the state troops remaining in Newport, the governor said he had no means of knowing how long it will be necessary for them to remain. Probably no mediator ever faced a harder task than that which confronted Governor Morrow. From the outset both the mill owners and the union leaders refused. It is said to concede one point. The issue is recognition of the unions collectively and there was no middle ground upon which to work. The all-day sessions ended with hand-shaking and friendly expression for the governor on all sides, but apparently that was all. As the mill owners and the union officers walked out of the Newport court house, Tuesday night, after the final ineffectual compromise, the governor watched them with eyes that were moist.

WHY WOMEN GET DESPONDENT

Are not women naturally as light-hearted, brave and hopeful as men? Yes, certainly; but a woman's organism is essentially different from a man's,—more delicate, more sensitive and more exacting. Women in delicate health are more dependent, more nervous, more irritable and more despondent. When a woman develops nervousness, sleeplessness, backaches, headaches, dragging-down pains and melancholia she should lose no time in giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial, as it will quickly dispel such troubles. This root and herb medicine contains no drugs and has been the standby of American womanhood for nearly fifty years.

ITALY'S UNKNOWN DEAD HONORED BY U. S.

A cablegram from Rome says: America today paid tribute to the Italian unknown soldier who sleeps beneath the nation's shrine in this city. American soldiers, forming a composite battalion, took part in the ceremonies incident to the bestowal of the Congressional Medal of Honor upon the Italian warrior. Richard Washburn Child, United States ambassador to Italy, delivered the oration at the tomb.
